In our opinion, there is not one chemical that is currently on the market that truly cleans the tanks and the sensors as they all advertise. Every black tank chemical company claims that their product breaks down or liquifies waste.

Indeed, that is exactly what they do. They create a sludge or thick pancake-like batter in the black tank and make it harder to keep tanks completely clean. In other words, these chemicals make a big "mess" in your tanks. Try this instead:

Mix 40 ounces of Pine-Sol with enough water to just about fill a gallon jug. Top off with a half cup of Calgon Bath Beads. Use eight ounces in each tank (or more in especially hot weather or if your tanks will be filling up slowly over time).
